FAIRFAX, VA, Oct. 25, 2021 - BULLETPROOF™, a GLI company and leading provider of Comprehensive IT Services, is proud to announce the addition of lottery industry leader Sean Athey to its business development team.

“We are excited and fortunate to have Sean join our business development team,” said Melissa Aarskaug, Bulletproof’s Vice President of Business Development. “Sean’s commitment to driving customer results, exceeding expectations and deep industry knowledge are a natural fit for our organization.”

Sean’s over 30 years in operational, business development, and marketing roles ensure she is ready to work with lottery clients, lottery suppliers and technology vendors as an essential resource for their IT, cybersecurity, project and portfolio management and quality assurance needs. Sean brings a wealth of lottery and gaming knowledge and experience to Bulletproof. Having worked both at lotteries and for instant, systems, sports betting and iLottery vendor partners, she offers customers diverse and comprehensive experience. Sean will join Pat Costaregni and Laurie Fisher in cultivating strong client relationships and supporting lotteries worldwide.

“I am thrilled to join the Bulletproof team,” said Athey. “It’s not often you get the opportunity to work for a company as credentialed and innovative as Bulletproof. Our industry is at the precipice of innovation and I’m excited to help lottery customers accelerate their digital transformation while building a foundation of security, integrity and agility. I look forward to helping customers modernize their lottery systems and introduce new sources of revenue while reducing threats and security risks.”
